Immeuble Dixence in Sion

This project is located in the center of the city of Sion, with two neighboring buildings, the river Sionne to the east and a quiet street to the west. So it is protected from the nuisances of the surroundings. The building unites nature and civilization by vegetation on the one hand and the concrete façades pigmented with earth color on the other. It is a reference to the rocks of the mountain and the basilica of Valère in the background. The same reference is made inside the building that also thematizes the contrast of the rock's mineral to the plants. The project is organized on six levels above ground and two levels below. It comprises 25 apartments, all facing east-west. From concept to use to materialization, the project guarantees a building with low energy consumption.
